Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tran-6582453 in view of Larsen, et al.-5993459 and Grafton-'783.

Tran discloses a method including the placating of tissue, forming a passage in bone tissue, passage of the suture through a suture eyelet of a suture anchor placed in the bone passage and then tying a knot in the suture. However, the suture anchor being insert molded and the driver having a slot for receiving the suture are not disclosed. However, Grafton discloses an insert molded suture eyelet on a suture anchor. It would have been obvious to have formed the attachment of the suture of Tran to the anchor using insert molding techniques, as such produces a suture anchor/suture combination which need not be countersunk avoiding abrasion with the bone. It also would have been obvious to have merely used the suture anchor of Grafton to perform the method of Tran as merely being an obvious well-known alternative type of suture anchor which would not abrade bone or tissue. Additionally, Larsen discloses a driver for an anchor having a side slot receiving the suture. It would have been obvious to have used a driver with a side slot in order to safely accommodate the suture attached to the anchor without the possibility of shredding the suture during implantation.

Response to Arguments

As seen in fig. 5, Tran clearly discloses the step of threading a leg of a suture through an eyelet of a suture anchor. Once modified by Grafton, this produces a step of threading a leg of a suture through an eyelet of an insert molded suture anchor. Once combined with Larsen as seen in fig. 25, the suture anchor would be driven by a plication driver having a slot through which the suture leg would pass. The suture anchor of Tran is a ribbed (26) suture anchor and is installed into the bone without turning. Therefore, all of the claimed limitations are met by the combination of the three references.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6,9,11 and 17 are allowed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
